

A musical genre is defined as a type of music

with certain characteristics.

The genres of music are very different.

There are differences in how they sound,

what instruments the musician use,

when they are born

and where they come from.

