C is for...country and western music.

Oh, look at that, there is a map! Do you see all the different colours on the map? Those are countries.

We go over to Africa, and we can see a country called Chad, in west Africa. In west Africa they have a cool instrument called the benjar.

Let's travel up to Scotland and Ireland: they are countries too. They play cool music on the fiddle.

These folks and their instrument arrived in the United States of America.

The United States is also a country, but country music is not named for the country of the United States. It is named for where the people lived to create the music. They didn't live in the city, they lived in the countryside.

That's why we give the name country music.
